AUTHORITY TO GRANT LEAVE BIG ISSUE IN MERCURY SUIT

Testimony Hinges On Fraser's Vacation

DAVEY'S STAND

Manager Says He Alone Had Right To Give Holiday

Further revelations anent the Japanese ownership of the Shanghai Mercury were brought to light yesterday during the trial in the British Supreme Court before Sir Skinner Turner of the case in which Mr. J. W. Fraser is suing the Mercury for wrongful dismissal and breach of contract.

Mr. Peyton Griffin, former editor of the Mercury, was the first witness to take the stand yesterday morning. Following Mr. Griffin were Mr. J. W. Davey, head of the advertising department and afterwards one of the directors, Mr. Sahara and Mr. H. P. King, chairman of the board of directors.

In answer to Mr. MacLeod's cross-examination Mr. Griffin stated that by proof-reading he understood the copy was set in type, and one had to go over proofs and correct the mistakes.

With regard to the question of outside work some papers deduct the percentage? It was before, but now it is discontinued. The paper took no percentage. These arrangements existed in the North China Daily News. The thing was stopped in 1915.

With regard to the work in the office when you first went there were there any proof-readers? Certainly there were.

When you arrived there who was in the office? When I arrived the staff was Mr. Fraser, Miss Stoppes, and it was increased by a Filipino who left somewhere about the end of March, and eventually Mr. Donaldson came to assist.

"SOME MISUNDERSTANDING"

You refer to some misunderstanding? Mr. Fraser thought that he would get Tls. 400 but he got $400. I think that he misunderstood the conversation I had with him.

Before you wrote the letter of April 26, you called upon Mr. Sahara? Yes.

And about the same time you called upon the Japanese Consul-General on June 25? Yes.

Why? To get his influence to prevent the dismissal of Mr. Holland.

Why go to the Japanese Consul General? To get his personal influence.

In order to bring pressure to bear on the board? To get some adequate representation somewhere.

What did you say to the Japanese Consul? I went there because of the impossible state of affairs at the office.

Did you tell him about Mr. Davey? Yes, that it was all due to Mr. Davey.

Did you not also make some effort to reassure the Japanese Consul-General that you were not opposed to the Japanese interests? No, but I explained to him that I was not leaving because I was prejudiced against Japanese interests in the Mercury.

I ought to state that the Japanese at no time interfered with the policy of the paper.

It had nothing to do with Japanese influence? It did not.

EXPLAINS VISIT

Why did you think it necessary to go to the Japanese Consul-General? I had discussed the matter with friends, and it was suggested that I should go to see him. At tiffin I was introduced to him.

You saw him and saw Mr. Sahara and complained of Mr. Davey? Yes.

And before that you had made up your mind to resign? Yes, but I promised Mr. Sahara that I would reconsider it.

On the 25th? Yes, and on the 26th other information reached me which led to resign.

Pressed as to what witness had actually told Mr. Sahara, Mr. Griffin said that he told him it was impossible to get on with Mr. Davey and that he had a very bad reputation.

He had been responsible for many people leaving? I did not say that.

But how had he a bad reputation? I knew that I wanted to get Mr. Holland a hearing. He

BY J. L. BUTTS

"When Constabulary duty's to be done—"

You know the rest of it, but Hwo Yui-sung probably never had heard of Gilbert and Sullivan and only recently discovered how truly unhappy the copper's lot may be, upon occasion.

Hwo Yui-sung is a real, honest-to-goodness policeman down in the Chinese City, inspiring awe in the hearts of pestiferous small boys and outward semblances of nobility and righteousness among such adult evil-doers as happen across his beat. But a few days ago he stepped out of his own bailiwick into the Settlement, all in the course of the aforementioned constabulary duty, mind you, and as a consequence he wound up as a prisoner in the Mixed Court. Whereupon he narrated to the Bench the harrowing tale:

A man named Zung was brought into the Chinese City Court, charged with unlawful activity in the opium trade. The evidence in the case was unanimously in support of the charge and the Magistrate decided on a $30 fine. Zung dug up $12 and stated that the treasury was then out of business. He could borrow the needed $18, however, from a friend in Chapei. Constable Hwo was delegated to go along and bring back the funds. Hwo related that Zung had led him to the shop of one Tsang, in the Settlement, and opened negotiations for the eighteen. Tsang refused to invest. They went to other places, many other places. It began to grow late. Hwo began to grow hungry. So did Zung. He proposed that they eat—on Hwo. Hwo acquiesced and they went to a foodshop. And there in the foodshop, Hwo indignantly declaimed, while he was deeply immersed in a bowl of rice, Zung got up and left with marvellous velocity for parts unknown.

Other clews failing, Hwo went back to Tsang's shop, flashed his credentials and demanded that Tsang produce the fugitive. A Settlement policeman, attracted by the racket, took both parties to the station.

The Court gave Hwo a strong lecture and assessed him $5 for trying to function as a constable outside his jurisdiction. And Hwo went back to his own territory convinced that old Sir William S. had the right dope.

FOR LUCK, MAYBE

If he had only declared, now that his wife was one of those normally self-surveying persons, or had invested in a new bonnet, or was dyeing her hair, or something of such plausible sort! But Tseu Ming-vung is apparantly an entirely unimaginative gent—or obstinately protective of Mme. Tseu's weaknesses. Therefore trouble awaits him.

It comes about thus: shortly before noon the other day Ts Yui-chung had occasion to leave his domicile at 3 Louza Ka for a few moments and, considering the time of day, did not think it necessary to lock the front door. When he returned he met Tseu coming out of the place with a large, wooden-framed mirror under his arm. The Court, Ts, Court attaches and casual attendants were all obviously intensely curious to know what Tseu's idea had been in according this outre item of the Ts household furnishings as the sole factor in his scheme of larceny. But Tseu refused to divulge the secret. He admitted the theft and remained disconcertingly in the face of all further questioning.

So they found him guilty and postponed sentence one week in order to review the state of the reflector plate market and scan the recent burglary reports for missing mirrors.

CHEN AND LEADERS GETTING READY FOR FLIGHT, PEKING HEARS

Southern Leader Expected To Start For Waichow Shortly; Civil Governor And Foreign Commissioner Of Kwangtung Reported To Have Left For Hongkong

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Jan. 11.—A foreign official telegram from Canton says that the Civil Governor of Kwangtung and the Foreign Commissioner have left for Hongkong.

The Kwangsi and Yunnan forces are marching on Canton from Shuihing via Samshui.

General Chen Chiung-ming is expected to start for Waichow shortly.

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, Jan. 10.—Since last night the agitation of the public mind here has become stronger in intensity, but the streets are comparatively quiet. Many of the leading members of General Chen Chiung-ming's faction are hurriedly taking refuge somewhere else. Commanders of all the Cantonese troops at the front have completely revolted against General Chen, whom they are now strongly urging to resign from his post.

Rumors are rife this morning that General Chen Chiung-ming has fled to Huichow, though the truth in this connection, has not been fully ascertained. It is learned on high authority that the region along the reaches of the river below Samshui is still in the hands of the Cantonese troops under the command of Chen Chiung-kuang and Chen Yung-shan. Several public bodies here are holding meetings today, deliberating upon measures in connection with the present political situation. The Mintung Party is very actively circulating the report that Canton is sure to be surrendered to the troops belonging to Dr. Sun Yat-sen within a week. General Wei Pang-ping is also making secret intrigues. The Chinese General Chamber of Commerce here has today passed the following resolutions:

1.—The defeated troops shall be forbidden to enter Canton.

2.—General Chen Chiung-ming shall be treated with due courtesy.

3.—Wen Shu-teh, Wu Fei, and Wei Pang-ping shall be elected and made to maintain public order for the present.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, Jan. 11.—A statement issued today says that General Chen Chiung-ming's regime is still commanding the situation in Canton. General Chen is assuring residents that local operations are unlikely and declaring that he would resign rather than allow non-combatants to suffer.

Waichow is being fortified.

General Chun Wing-sen, Commandant of Coast Defense, is reported to be operating at Samshui against the Miukwan Peoples' Army.

Ten million dollars of unissued Government, bank-notes have been destroyed to prevent further issuing.

Peking, Jan. 11.—Dr. Sun Yat-sen has sent a letter to the Premier stating that he recognises the Premier's high qualifications and knows that General Chang Shou-tseng advocates peaceful reunification so he hopes the Premier will settle the discord of past years.

(China Press Service)

Canton, Jan. 10.—Martial law has been declared in Canton. There is a general exodus of Chinese to Macao and Hongkong. Wealthy Chinese here are busy depositing their valuables with the foreign banks at Shameen.

A number of popular organisations held a meeting at the Kwang Chi Hospital today when it was proposed to request Gen. Li Ping-yung to maintain the situation in Canton.

Chen Chih-yu, Civil Governor of Kwangtung, is now living at the Asia Hotel on the Bund which flies the British flag.

Canton bank notes now have depreciated to a point at which they are worth but ten percent of their face value.

Peking, Jan. 10.—Premier Chang Shou-tseng has sent telegrams to Dr. Sun Yat-sen, Gen. Li Lieh-chun, Mr. Tang Shao-yi and other leaders in the South-West, requesting them to "mediate" regarding the latest military developments in the South.

Telegrams have also been dispatched to Chen Chiung-ming, Commander-in-chief of the rebel Kwangtung troops, Shen Hung-yin and Lin Chin-ting, Commanders of the Allied troops, exhorting them to confine their troops to Kwangtung and Kwangsi respectively and not to invade each other's province. Premier Chang declares that matters may be settled amicably.

Canton, Jan. 10.—There is a persistent report that Chen Chiung-ming, who left here secretly last night, has gone to Hongkong. The suggestion that he has gone to Waichow, his native district, is hardly probable in view of the fact that he was "advised" to leave Canton by General Li Ping-yung who is now in Canton but whose headquarters are at Waichow.

Hongkong, Jan. 10.—Upon receipt of an urgent telegram from Gen. Yeh Chu that the Kwangtung troops had retreated to the mouth of the Samshui River, Chen Chiung-ming called a military conference this morning, when it was resolved to withdraw Gen. Weng Shih-liang's army from the Fukien border to strengthen the defence of Canton, which is being menaced by the Constitutionalist victories on the Western front.

DI VILLA CASE WILL BE HEARD ON SATURDAY

Misappropriation Charge To Come Before Japanese Assessor

The charge of misappropriation of funds brought against the Viscount E. M. di Villa, former co-manager of the Far Eastern Bank, by Mr. S. Saguira on behalf of the International Gold and Silver Currency Stock Exchange—as mentioned in yesterday's issue—came up for a hearing in the Mixed Court yesterday before Assessor King and Magistrate Loh.

The defendant is accused of conspiring with Nien Sung-tung in falsely pretending that the registration fee of the Exchange at the Italian Consulate was $100,000 instead of $50,000 and of misappropriating $25,000 "to his own possession."

Inspector Mackenzie asked that the case be remanded for hearing before the Japanese Assessor, since Japanese interests were involved, and the matter was adjourned to come before Assessor Tanaka tomorrow. The defendant is already in custody in connection with the Lire 6,500,000 brought against him by the liquidators for the Far Eastern Bank.

Turkey And Persia To O.K. Drug Pact

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, January 11.—The Opium Commission has been informed of Turkey and Persia that they propose to ratify the Convention.

The Commission has decided to invite Switzerland and certain South American States to enforce the Convention.

Mr. Campbell proposed a discussion of methods for controlling opium in regions where control does not yet exists.

The Court of Foreign Consuls for 1923 will be composed of Mr. S. Barton, Consul-General for Great Britain; Mr. Edwin S. Cunningham, Consul-General for the United States, and Mr. N. Aall, Consul-General for Norway, according to a communication from the Consular Body to the Municipal Council. The Council is also informed that Com. de Rossi, Consul-General for Italy; Major J. L. Isler, Consul-General for Switzerland, and Mr. T. Funatsu, Consul-General for Japan, have been elected as the 1923 representatives on the Board of Governors of the General Hospital.

EIGHT LAWYERS IN SUIT OVER LOT IN AMERICAN COURT

Eight Attorneys Present To Assist In Unravelling Mixup

A convention of lawyers gathered at the United States Court for China yesterday before Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier when the case of Mr. Emil S. Fischer against Mr. Charles Stone was continued. Judge Cornell Franklin appeared for Mr. Fischer, Mr. W. W. Blume, Mr. Leonard Hartigan and Mr. Tycho Wing for Mrs. H. Hansen, an intervenor in the action, Mr. J. B. Davies and Hanson's for Mr. Y. C. Woo, another intervenor, and Major C. P. Holcomb and Mr. F. J. Schuhl appeared as witnesses.

The action is over the ownership of a lot registered in the American Land Office.

Mr. H. Hanson, husband of one of the interevenors, occupied the stand all morning and part of the afternoon, and suggested that Mr. Woo, another intervenor, had committed fraud in advancing the sum of $77,000 to Mr. Stone to assist Reid's, Ltd. in their financial difficulties.

At the afternoon session Mrs. Hansen was called, and Major Holcomb and Mr. Schuhl testified as to conversations that went on in a meeting on the question in Mr. Schuhl's office. The case was continued.

Equitable Eastern Bank Moves To New Quarters Soon

The Equitable Eastern Banking Corporation has leased the lower floor of the Arnhold Brothers building, at the corner of Szechuen and Kiukiang Roads, comprising about 5,000 square feet, and will take possession after alterations are completed about April 1, according to an announcement made last night by Mr. James J. Rogers, manager of the bank.

The premises are at present occupied by the China Mail offices, and when the proposed alterations are completed the present main entrance to the Arnhold building will become the main entrance to the bank, and the entrance to the building will be located on Szechuen Road. The bank is at present located at 1 Kiukiang Road.

The Equitable Trust Company of New York, parent corporation of the local bank, has just increased its capital from G.12,000,000 to G.20,000,000, Mr. Rogers also announces. In the increased capitalisation a stock dividend of G.4,000,000 was declared.

RUHR CITY GREATLY EXCITED; AMBASSADOR AT PARIS RECALLED

Germans Attempting To Thwart Occupation By Removing Books And Accounts Of Mines And Factories To Points Further Inland

MANY FAVOR "ACTIVE RESISTANCE

Wildest Rumors Afloat Throughout Country—U. S. "Bitterly Resents" Action Of France, Says London Times Correspondent

Exclusive Dispatch to THE CHINA PRESS

Essen, (via Paris), Jan. 11.—French troops occupied the Ruhr basin this morning. Shortly before sunrise two echelons of French battleplanes appeared from the south and east flying low in battle formation and circled the city. Aroused by the whirring of the planes, the streets were early filled by silent crowds that walked aimlessly back and forth, and watching the maneuvres.

Closely following the aeroplanes were more than a score of troop trains. Civilians were barred from the station platforms. The long lines of blue clad troops belonging to the crack Chasseurs d'Afrique regiments from Morocco and Algiers, as well as the Chasseurs a Pied of the Regular army detrained and marched through sullen lines of humanity toward their prearranged quarters.

(Reuter's Service)

Essen, Jan. 11.—The French arrived here at 10:50 this morning.

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Jan. 10.—President Harding has recalled the American troops from the Rhine. The transport, St Mihiel, sails today or tomorrow to repatriate the troops.

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Jan. 10.—The German Government has decided to recall its Ambassadors in Paris and Brussels, who have been instructed to leave their offices in charge of their diplomatic counsellors.

(Reuter's Service)

Essen, Jan. 11.—The city is in a state of very great excitement at the prospect of the imminent French advance. Crowds are thronging the streets and the people think and talk of nothing else. Every train arriving at Duesseldorf from Cologne brings further troops.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 11.—The Times' Washington correspondent states that the French action with regard to the Ruhr is viewed with anger and repulsion. The American and French Governments are rapidly drifting apart on the situation in which any effective co-operation will long be impossible.

Duesseldorf, January 10.—Schoolwork has been partly suspended in Duesseldorf, numerous schools and 40 hotels have been requisitioned by the French.

The Germans have already supplied 43 of the 73 trains demanded by the French, whose advance-guard is moving by road and the remainder by rail.

Essen and Muelheim are the first objectives and after those Bochum and Gelsenkirchen.

The attitude of the Germans in the British area is venomously anti-French. A large irresponsible section of the population favors active resistance. The widest rumors are afloat and fears are expressed lest the British and American troops should be withdrawn.

The German Government is making a world wide protest against the French and Belgian measures through its diplomatic representatives, who have been instructed to submit a comprehensive statement to the Powers to which they are accredited, complaining that the measures are a breach of the Peace Treaty and of international law.

Berlin, Jan. 11.—A wave of protest against the invasion of the Ruhr is sweeping the entire country. The Prussian, Saxon, Bavarian and Wurtemburg Diets have passed resolutions of protest.

News of American withdrawal from the Rhine caused a great outburst of enthusiasm

It Pays To Advertise!

(China Press Service)

London, Jan. 10.—England this fall had an exceptionally large harvest of oysters, so much so that there was fear the public would not consume it all. So the oystermongers of Colchester started a national advertising campaign which in three weeks cleared their shelves and left the public still clamoring for more.

The Mistakes Of The Kaiser

M. Viviani, Premier of France when the World War broke out, has written a series of articles answering William's Memoirs in which he declares that "truth will fling denial" of the warlord's version—a mass of "plain lies" and evasions of historic facts.

M. Viviani's answer gives the French point of view just as Lloyd George's answer gave the British reaction on the Kaiser's Memoirs.

The first article in the interesting series appears on page 6.

at the meeting of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Reichstag yesterday. The coming Saturday has been proclaimed a day of mourning by all the Prussian State schools.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Jan. 10.—Several militant communists, not including M. Marcel Cachin, mentioned yesterday as conferring with German and Russian Communists on the situation which would arise from the occupation of the Ruhr, have been arrested on a charge of endangering the safety of the State bp anti-French propaganda, particularly in lectures and articles in Germany.

Berlin, Jan. 10.—The Rhenish Westphalian Coal Syndicate has decided to transfer its head office from Essen to Hamburg.

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung states that Krupp's will try to continue work normally in order to avoid unemployment.

It is reported that the Minister of Food, Dr. Luther, in tends to resume the Burgomastership of Essen.

An indication of the German methods to deal with the French occupation is given in the above announcement that the headquarters of the coal syndicate have removed from Essen to Hamburg, thus depriving the Ruhr mining companies of their central organisation for the sale of products.

It is pointed out here that the French will therefore be obliged to deal with the companies individually or create their own syndicate. The latter measure would be difficult bcause the German syndicate have already sent all documents and books to Hamburg.

The Mittag Zeitung says that all big manufacturers in the Ruhr, with their managers and engineers, will leave the district when the French enter Essen.

Cologne, Jan. 10.—The French Rhine Flotilla, stationed at Mayence, is proceeding to Dusseldorf, Ruhrort and Duisburg tomight.

The French Rhine Flotilla is a considerable fleet comprising converted Rhine steamers and armed motor-launches of British pattern which are able to navigate the network of the Ruhr canals.

Paris, Jan. 10.—A Note handed to the German Ambassador says that in consequence of the default in coal and timber deliveries recorded by the Reparations Commission the French Government deems it necessary to send a mission of engineers to the Ruhr to control the deliveries.

The Note does not indicate the places where the members of the mission will take up their quarters but it mentions that troops will accompany the mission with the sole object of assuring its safety and maintaining order at points of control.

(China Press Service)

New York, Jan. 10.—The immediate inference in many quarters was that the withdrawal of American troops should be interpreted as a protest rather that an attempt to avoid possible trouble as a result of the French advance.

It is now reported that President Harding's order followed a notification from France to the effect that she intended to proceed with occupation of the Ruhr in spite of the definite knowledge that this would entail the withdrawal of American troops.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Jan. 10.—The Belgian Government has handed to the German Government a similar notification to that presented by France on the subject of the sending of engineers to control coal deliveries in the Ruhr.

The Italian Government has also decided to send engineers into the Ruhr.

The Note states that Italy is sending a mission. It emphasises that the operation is in no way military or political. No disturbance will be caused to the normal life of the population but warning is given that the staff, administration and representatives of industrial and commercial bodies must conform with the orders of the mission under penalty of severe sanctions.

According to Reuter's correspondent at Brussels, the Belgian Foreign Minister has notified Germany that Belgium is also sending a mission, on the same lines.

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, Jan. 10.—According to the newspapers, the Foreign Office is elaborating a new plan designed to solve the reparations problem, the details of which will be worked out by France Italy and Belgium. It is noteworthy that Britain is not mentioned.

Authority To Grant Leave Big Issue In Mercury Suit

had never had it, besides, I had a moral obligation as he had left a good job for a questionable one.

And as editor you thought you could go to the Japanese Consul-General and speak of the managing director? You can put any interpretation you like on it. I had to do the best I could for a man to whom I had a certain obligation.

As to the statement he had made with reference to two Chinese spying on him, he had withdrawn that and apologised. He did not rely on gossiping women, but he had good reason to believe that it was true although he could not prove it.

Mr. Macleod drew the attention of witness to the fact that he had withdrawn the statement and sincerely apologised.

"MATTER OF DISCRETION"

Witness: That was a matter of discretion.

So the apology was as insincere as it could be? You may take it as that.

Re-examined by Mr. Reader Harris: This offer of purchase? Yes. Who had control at that time? I understand Mr. Sahara.

Was that your reason for going to the Japanese Consul-General? Precisely.

And not to the French Consul? Yes. If it had been under British control and an Englishman had had a bad deal I would have gone to the British Consul.

Further on Mr. Reader Harris produced the evidence of Mr. G. W. King, the Magistrate, British Police Court.

Mr. Reader Harris also referred the Court to two cases.

Then Mr. Macleod shortly outlined the defendants' story, and called Mr. J. W. Davey.

Witness told the Court how his attention had been drawn to the fact that Fraser was absent in the afternoons, and that the editor (Mr. Griffin) had told him that he was not getting his (plaintiff's) loyal support.

After tiffin the examination of Mr. Davey was continued.

A list of names was put in, given to Mr. Sahara, of persons who had left the company since Mr. Fraser rejoined. It was handed over to show that Mr. Davey was responsible for their departure. Witness took no part in the decision of the company regarding any one of the men, save the last on the list, Mr. Holland. On the list were three on the business side of the company, one of whom resigned to take up another post.

The principal reason for Mr. Holland leaving was because he could not manage the Chinese. One day there was something approaching a strike, but witness pacified them. He gave a full hearing to Mr. Holland. The foreman had come at 4 p.m. to witness one day with a threat that the men would down tools. As a result of a letter, three months' notice was given to Holland.

As to Fraser, the first time he had heard that the chief reporter had gone was on the morning of the 31st when Griffin came to see him and told him that he had not come in the previous day, etc. He (the editor) went back and wrote a letter to witness. Witness knew nothing of any consent given as to the work done for the "Shanghai Times."

Cross-examined by Mr. Reader Harris, witness said he had been in China 30 years, and had had experience of newspaper work before coming to China. Printing was his profession, but he had had no experience as editor, as sub-editor, or reporter. The members of the editorial staff were under him as managing director, as he represented the shareholders. The editor could not give permission to any member of the staff to do any outside work.

Witness remembered a meeting of the board in November when it was decided that the two departments editorial and business were to be separated. He (Mr. Davey) insisted that did not affect the managing director, and that even after the resolution had been passed a member of the editorial staff could not have his leave granted by the editor.

Mr. Reader Harris: Who are the controlling interests in the Mercury? British, Japanese, or American? I would ask the Court if that is relevant.

His Lordship thinks so. Must be Mr. Sahara? Is Mr. Sahara the principal director? No. He is not. He has large interests which I will not discuss.

Is he the largest? Of any one shareholder, yes.

Mr. Harris: He has the largest interest of any one shareholder. That is all I want.

In reply to questions asked by Mr. Harris, Mr. Davey stated further there that he had never disparaged Mr. Fraser's reportorial work. He was an excellent reporter when he wanted to be, the witness said, but his forte was court reporting and as a result he slighted everything else. With regard to doing outside work in the Japanese court, Mr. Davey stated that he had never given his permission, one reason being that Mr. Fraser had never asked him for it and the second that relations were more or less strained. The witness added that he had other troubles at that time so did not tax Mr. Fraser with doing outside work.

Mr. Harris then asked the witness to state his views regarding the twelve foreigners who were either dismissed or resigned because they could not get on with him. Mr. Davey answered that there had been several changes in the staff which were due to many causes, but was not aware that the changes were due to a disagreement with him. He had no knowledge of a list of twelve until recently. Mr. Harris pressed the point and asked if it was not true that one of his employes assaulted him, and that as a result he had him arrested and appeared before the U. S. Commissioner on a charge of assault. The witness admitted, after some lengthy demurring, that a former employe had assaulted him; he added that the man was not then an employe.

Mr. Harris: "A former employe?"

"Yes."

"He had resigned?"

"Yes."

Mr. Harris: "I judge he was wise to have resigned before making the assault."

Mr. Harris then asked the witness if he could suggest any reason why Mr. Fraser's work should have slacked off particularly when he was promised an editorship, and knew that Mrs. Griffin, the editor, contemplated resigning.

Mr. Davey answered that Mr. Fraser lost all interest in his work following an application for increased salary which was denied him by the Board of Directors.

With regard to the question of leave, Mr. Davey stated that the Board of Directors considered five days before writing the letter discharging Mr. Fraser, because he had shown himself not amenable to discipline.

Mr. Harris then directed his questioning along the lines of a conversation Mr. Fraser had with Mr. Sahara stating that affairs were not running smoothly and that it was due to Mr. Davey's interference. The witness replied that before having any conversation with Mr. Sahara Mr. Fraser should have come to him, or at least written a letter which would have been sent through the usual channels.

Judge Turner: "Do you mean to say, Mr. Davey, that the only way for the Board of Directors to discover what is amiss with the staff is through you?"

"Yes, my lord."

"Then it would be impossible for a member of the board to conduct an investigation unless it was through you?"

"Yes, my lord. It is not my ruling but that of the Board of Directors."

Mr. T. Sahara, who was the next witness, stated that he was not a Christian so could not take the oath. He repeated the affirmation after Judge Skinner Turner.

In direct examination conducted by Mr. Macleod, Mr. Sahara stated that he was a director of the Mercury which was a British corporation. Anent Mr. Fraser's outside work he claimed ignorance as to whether he ever did work in the Japanese court or not. A friend in Mitsui and Company called him on the telephone and asked him for the name of a good reporter and he had mentioned Mr. Fraser. Beyond that he knew nothing.

With regard to Mr. Fraser's call at his house on April 25, Mr. Sahara stated that Mr. Fraser telephoned him for an appointment saying that he had some information to impart. When Mr. Fraser arrived, he found Mr. Davey there so did not bring up the subject of his call.

After Mr. Davey's departure, Mr. Fraser remained at Mr. Sahara's suggestion and told of trouble between Mr. Griffin and Mr. Davey over his (Fraser's) holiday.

Mr. Sahara: "He then stated that affairs at the office had not been running smoothly for some time due to interference, and handed me a list of twelve names of foreigners, who could not get along with Mr. Davey and consequently either resigned or were discharged. I advised him to avoid all trouble with Davey because his interests in the paper were about the same as my own."

Mr. Sahara then told of a visit Mr. Griffin made to the Japanese consul to tell him that although he considered resigning, his sympathies were with the Japanese. The witness stated that he knew of this interview because the Japanese consul telephoned him, although Mr. Griffin wished to keep the object of his visit confidential.

In the cross examination Mr. Harris brought out the facts that Mr. Sahara thought "it was very bad for an employe to criticise his employer, and then deny having criticised him," which he stated Mr. Fraser did at a Board meeting somewhat later.

Mr. H. P. King, acting chairman of the Board of Directors of the Mercury, corroborated Mr. Sahara's testimony particularly with reference to Mr. Fraser's statement before the Board of Directors, when he denied ever making any accusations against Mr. Davey. He made these flat denials both to Mr. Sahara and Mr. King, the latter asserted.

The case will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning.

Establish Course In Manual Training At Th. Hanbury School

A department in Manual training in the Thomas Hanbury School for Boys' has been sanctioned by the Municipal Council and will be opened early this month, according to information contained in the Municipal Gazette.

The Sloyd Manual Training Center made the Council an offer to present the school 40 benches and complete tools for the work with certain restrictions, which the Council accepted. It is estimated the work will cost Tls. 3,500 omitting timber, for the ensuing year. Boys taking the course will be charged $2 per year.

Greeks Deny They Are Preparing To Launch Offensive

(Reuter's Service)

Lausanne, Jan. 10.—An important result reached at the meeting of the commission for the Exchange of Populations this morning is that the Turks have abandoned their policy regarding the Greek Patriarch, who will remain in Constantinople deprived of his temporal powers, and the Greek inhabitants will be permitted to remain in Constantinople.

The Turkish inhabitants will be allowed to remain in West Thrace but the only Greeks allowed to remain in Constantinople are arrivals after October, 1918.

Earl Curzon expressed gratification at the change of attitude of the Turks.

The consensus of opinion among the delegates is that this was the most satisfactory meeting of the Conference.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Jan. 10.—The Greek delegation in Paris denies the report that Greek troops are preparing an offensive movement in Thrace.

The Temps states that the Greek troops, concentrated in Western Thrace and Macedonia, are about 100,000 strong, divided into nine divisions.

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, Jan. 9.—An immense impression has been created at Angora by the declaration of the Egyptian National Congress, published there, demanding the withdrawal of British troops from Egypt, the abrogation of all treaties and agreements formerly signed between England and Egypt, the neutralisation of the Suez Canal, whose guardianship should be entrusted to an independent Egypt.

The members of the nationalist Egyptian delegation on arriving at Angora declared to newspaper correspondents that the main object of their visit was to protest against the official Egyptian Government delegation to the Lausanne conference, and also to consolidate the brotherly bonds between Egyptian delegates to Angora were received by Kemal Pasha.

ROBBERS SENTENCED

Sentences of five years imprisonment each were served by the Mixed Court yesterday on three armed robbers convicted of crimes in the Wayside district.

Charges against four others also implicated were dismissed, but the Court ordered that the seven men be turned over to the Chinese authorities for trial on charges preferred in Chinese territory. Following their trial in the Chinese district court they are to be returned to the Mixed Court, the three convicted men there to begin their terms here.

Thirty-Eight Rioters Are Charged In British Court

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

HANKOW, January 11.—At the British Court this morning 38 persons were charged with various breaches of the peace, intimidation and assault. They received sentences ranging from five months to two weeks.

All is quiet. The volunteers are standing by.

(Eastern News Agency)

Hankow, Jan. 11.—The riot created by Chinese workmen in the British Settlement here has assumed a more serious dimension owing to the fact that the British Police have arrested thirty-five of the ringleaders of the workmen. A large crowd of excited workmen rushed to the Police Station and demanded the release of those arrested.

The Chinese authorities here have also demanded the release of those arrested but the British Police have not complied with the request as yet. The Union of workmen's associations of Wuhan has decided to hold an extraordinary mass-meeting tonight and will open negotiations with the British Consul-General at Hankow with regard to the arrest of the workmen as well as to the indemnity to those workmen who have got injured in the scuffle with the police force and the volunteer corps.

Japanese Naval Men Dinner Guests

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, Jan. 11.—The Japanese Consul-General gave a banquet in honor of the naval visitors last night. The Governor, Sir Reginald Stubbs, Admiral Sir Arthur Leveson, Major-Gen. Sir John Fowler and the members of the Legislative Council were present.

The community entertained to luncheon 400 Japanese sailors at the City Hall this afternoon. A British naval contingent took part.

Wedding

NANTAO INSTITUTE ISSUES REPORT ON YEAR'S WORK

The annual report of the Nantao Christian Institute has just made its appearance. Two features of this report especially commend themselves: it is brief and concise and it has many half-tone pictures. The staff consists of nine secretaries, with A. R. Kepler as the General Secretary, who organise and direct a varied community program as expressed in the five departments of work—the Religious, Educational, Social Service, Women and Girls' and Boys' and Physical Departments. Sixteen teachers have in charge the six schools ministering to the educational needs of all ages and classes.

On the Honorary Board of Directors are Mr. C. T. Wang, Minister for Foreign Affairs; Y. N. Chien, Head Director of the Bank of Communications, Peking; Dr. P. W. Kuo, Pres. of South-eastern University; V. D. Kao, Manager of the Commercial Press; Wang Yi Ting, etc., etc.

A glance at the following list of projects will help to an appreciation of the extensive work that is being done by the Institute in Nantao—the Community of over 300,000 forming the southern district of our metropolis.

1. Vaccination Campaign,—Vaccinated over 5,000 in the 1922 campaign.
2. Baby Welfare Week.
3. Collection and Distribution of old clothing.
4. Community Clinic—Daily.
5. Neighborhood Nursing.
6. Free Schools for poor boys and girls.
7. Classes and lectures and other welfare work among ricksha coolies and other unskilled toilers.
8. Neighborhood organised play and story-telling for the children.
9. Boys and Girls Clubs.
10. Sewing classes for neighborhood girls.
11. Moving pictures for community entertainment and uplift.
12. Kindergarten, Girls Select School, School of Commerce, Course for Training of Office Boys, Evening Continuation classes in English and Commercial Subjects.
13. Monthly program in eight of the Nantao Schools having over 6,000 students.
14. Weekly Bible Classes and Sunday Evangelistic Services.

The Nantao Institute is now engaged in its annual membership and financial campaign with fourteen teams with Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, Hsu Yuan, as Generalissimo. The Budget for 1923 amounts to $17,000 of which $7,000 must be secured through this campaign.

The work of the Nantao Christian Institute is of such a character as to warrant a hearty response from all those in our Model Settlement to whom the canvassers may appeal.

'Round The World Walkers Go On To Hangchow Tomorrow

R. Korobkoff and A. W. Johannsen, two Russians who are now in Shanghai on the first lap of a proposed walk around the world, will leave tomorrow for Hangchow from where they will go on to Bankok, India and around to Europe.

The two men, dressed in shorts and wearing a band announcing their ambition across their chests, visited THE CHINA PRESS office yesterday and sold a member of the staff a photograph of themselves for 60 cents. They are making their way by selling such pictures along the way, having arrived from Harbin with $1.32 between them.

The walkers carry a book filled with the chops and signatures of officials, Consular and Government authorities and newspaper editors whom they visited in cities and towns between Harbin and Shanghai.

Appoint Consular Body Committee To Study Mixed Court

A committee of five consisting of the Consuls-General of the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, was selected at the last meeting of the Consular Body to undertake the study of proposed changes in the International Mixed Court. The question is expected to be discussed again at the next meeting at the Italian Consulate on Tuesday.

Three other questions were also discussed at the meeting, the question of Russian refugees being referred to the Chinese authorities, and further discussion decided upon regarding contraband ammunition and arms and public health problems in the Settlement.

AMERICA LEANS TO EASIER DEBT TERMS, BELIEF

Burton, Commissioner, Asks House To Cut Interest, Extend Time

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Jan. 10.—The preliminary negotiations with regard to the funding of the British debt have convinced American official circles that a modification of the rate of interest and of the duration of the debt fixed by the present American law is necessary to a settlement and that a tentative plan in that connection must be framed for submission to Congress.

Both Houses held a debate today on the funding negotiations.

Mr. Burton, one of the American Debt Commissioners, speaking in the House of Representatives, urged the House to give the most moderate terms possible, for Britain stood with her back to the wall for payment.

New York, Jan. 10.—The papers give unstinted praise to Mr. Stanley Baldwin's straightforward and masterly exposition of the debt situation and urge Congress to make an agreement on the easiest terms possible.

Tonight's Game, at the Rowing Club, 5:30, Blues vs. Stripes.

BY TOMMY GRAFTON

Kenny Irle's Bearcats defeated the Public School five in a fierce game at the Y.M.C.A. last night, featured by the wonderful shooting of Jack Levis, the School forward star, and the all-around defensive playing of Irle, whose fast work accounted for the 34 to 21 win. It was the eighth straight game for the Bearcats this season.

The Whites did not show up, and forfeited to the American School, who now have a record of six games won and three lost.

The Bearcats, recalling their easy victory over the School team last time, started out without Irle, but in a few minutes were crying for help, and Irle jumped in, smashing the S.P.S. attack, in a series of dribbles and passes, which frequently resulted in goals. The Bearcat captain was in great form, and played a stellar game.

Jack Levis was responsible for most of the School scores, netting 11 points in the first half alone, many of which came from shots from the most difficult angles, which he eased in to the astonishment of the crowd. In the second period Irle was on him every second, and he had no chance to repeat his performance of the first half.

Doc Gray kept up to the hot pace he has been setting since the holidays, caging five baskets from the floor, and dropping in six out of eight chances from the foul line. Doc was under the basket most of the time, where he did deadly work.

The Public School started off with their usual hard attack, and kept close behind the Bearcats throughout the first half, which ended 22 to 15 favoring the ultimate winners. Neither team was able to do much scoring in the second half, the Bearcats handling the ball most of the period, but lacked shooting ability.

Roy Squires, the American School Star, referee to the general satisfaction of all.

The summary follows:

Public School 21		Bearcats 34
Levis	lf	Gray
Johansson	rf	Pollock
Brockett	c	Roxburgh

"Giants" Always Big Men; Club Is Now 40 Years Old; McGraw At Helm Since 1903

"Giants in action as well as in stature," mused old Jim Mutrie, one day more than a quarter of a century ago as he sat observing the New York team, then an aggregation of six-footers, stride to victory as easily as a fairy-book man wearing seven-league boots would win a Marathon race.

Ever since, they have been the "Giants"—professionally, competitively and financially. Jim was the "Daddy of the Giants" and had the right to attach a moniker to his figurative progeny, but when he uttered his now famous phrase he did it out of simple admiration. A reporter sitting near to him usurped the ministerial function and did the baptising.

The Giants are now 40 years old. Mutrie brought the club into existence in 1883 by inducing John B. Day, a rabid fan of the sideburns days, to finance his idea. Jim took the management and played the first seasons on the old Polo Grounds, then on Fifth Avenue, gaining admittance to the National League in its initial year by replacing the Troy team.

On that "nine," figuratively and actually a "nine" with no substitute pitchers nor catchers, were "Buck Ewing," Mickey Welch, Roger Connor, Pat Gillespie and Ed Haskins, all big muscular men. Mutrie remained as manager until Day sold his interests to Cornelius Van Cott in 1893. Van Cott didn't stick along, disposing of the franchise in 1895 after the club had finished fifth in 1894.

Andrew Freedman was the next owner, retaining control for eight years, but the club was unsuccessful, finishing in the second division in every year except 1897. In his eight-year span Freedman had eleven managers, including George Davis, Jack Doyee, Harvey Watkins, Arthur Irwin, Bill Joyce, Captain A. C. Anson, John B. Day, Fred Hoey, Buck Ewing, George Smith and Horace Fogel.

John Joseph McGraw, "Napoleon of Baseball," came to the helm in 1903 after he had lost both his heart and head in the old Baltimore Orioles, and finished second his first year. John T. Brush, builder of the present imposing edifice, sometimes called the Brush Stadium, was the owner then.

The following year McGraw's team won the pennant but refused to play the Boston Americans for the World's Championship. The refusal led to the formation of the former National Commission in the following year and it at once made mandatory a series of contests for the supremacy of the world. The Giants won the pennant again the next year and defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, four games to one, for the title.

Harry Hempstead, in 1911, succeeded his father-in-law, John T. Brush, as head of the club, and six years later gave McGraw a new contract which included stock in the operating company. Two years later Charles A. Stoneham, Francis McQuade and McGraw purchased the club from the Brush estate and Stoneham became the president.

Penn's Track Team Invited To Go To Paris Next May

(China Press Service)

Philadelphia, Jan. 9.—The University of Pennsylvania has received an invitation from athletic officials of the University of Paris to send a team to the world's collegiate championship meet in Paris next Spring, Coach Lawson Robertson announced today. The meet is to be held May 6, in the midst of the American season. Because of this, Robertson said, it was doubtful whether the invitation would be accepted.

HONGKONG RACE MEETING STARTS ON FEBRUARY 28

The Hongkong Jockey Club's 1923 meeting opens on Wednesday, February 28, and continues on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. There will be eleven events each day, as hitherto, quite a full day's racing, the Off Day program including two A and B Class Events in its nine. Entries will close on Saturday, January 27 at 3 p.m.

The names of the races remain the same, with Derby, Ladies' Purse Champions, etc., in their old order, and on the Off Day a Subscription Griffins Champions' Sweepstake for a presented cup and prize money. The cup is to be won two years in succession or three years in all by the same owner, the event being for subscription griffins of this season, winners and placed ponies only. Distance, one mile and a quarter. This is the sixth event on the Off Day.

In the big champions event ponies must be ridden by jockeys who have won at least three official flat races in Hongkong and China or jockeys approved by the Stewards.

The first race each day will be run at 12 noon.

Cantonese Footballers Would Represent China Again

GOOD IN NORTH

Men Developed By Alec Leslie, Clifford And Quayle May Help

The Chinese soccer football team of Hongkong, for eight years the Far Eastern champions, may not represent China next May at Osaka, when the Far Eastern Olympic Games will be staged.

Because of the progress made by Northern Chinese footballers, notably in the East China Intercollegiate Athletic Association, the committee selecting the China team for the games in Japan has expressed a desire to see the Cantonese play an eleven from the North so that China will be best represented when the soccer footballers from this country meet the team from Japan and the Philippines.

Alec Leslie has developed a wonderful team at Nanyang College and in the nine years that he has been coaching he has developed many players who would hold their own with the men from Hongkong. Willie Clifford has taught many St. John's men the game while Jimmy Quayle has helped other Chinese collegians.

Because of the high class soccer being played in this part of the country and the advance made in football in North China, those of the selection committee believe that there is a possibility of making the Chinese team for the

An Answer To The Kaiser's Recent Memoirs

BY RENE VIVIANI

Premier of France When the War Broke Out.

I take up my pen after having, naturally, read the memoirs of the Emperor, with care. I am going to answer them, passing over what is negligible therein; my desire is to make a rapid and exact synthesis, not a table of contents. Whenever necessary, I shall make a resume of the outstanding parts of these memoirs, at which, in most cases, truth will fling a denial. I shall endeavor to follow, amid contradictions, half-avowals and inexplicable silences, the thread of these pages, which are mostly lacking in the proofs that were promised and expected.

I shall point the frightful mental confusion, the even more frightful blindness, and the contempt with which the ex-Emperor affirms and writes—certainly as 1923, possibly in 1922—without paying the slightest heed to the plentiful documents which history has harvested in order to place them at the feet of Justice.

The book of the Emperor ceems as if it had been written in 1918, at time of his fall and flight when we did not know about most of the facts and telegrams which he, the Emperor, knew full well, since he had commented upon them in notes which were at times filthy.

What hopes are harbored by this writer, who seems to handle the pen even worse than the sword? He knows nothing of the books of certain Germans, whose consciences made them courageous; of the 1919 revelations of the new government of the Reich which have substituted for the first White Book, which contained thirty-six documents, a White Book composed of 521 documents; of the Bavarian revelations; of the revelations of the Austrian Red Book. He passes over in silence the terrible dispatches of the Austrian ambassador at Berlin and makes statements as if these dispatches had never existed. Yet he knows about these things as well as we do; in fact, he knows even more about them than we, since, undoubtedly, important documents were spirited away from the Imperial Palace at the very moment in 1918 when the august and heroic emperor assured his own safety by means of a headlong flight.

Such are the memoirs.

Add to this the untiring repetitions of German propaganda, statements which contradict each other on every page, plain lies—and you will have an exact idea before putting your hands upon it, of the imperial production to which these rapidly-written pages, based upon documents and upon proofs, will now seek to reply.

As is quite easily understandable, the emperor has harked back, in his memoirs, to the first years of his youth, when—unfortunately for the world—definite responsibility was placed in his hands. We may follow him back to those days, but hurriedly, since it is not possible to check his statements. Moreover, the useful task which we have set ourselves in writing these pages cannot be confined solely to this part of the memoirs, which, interesting as it might have been in normal times, has been obliterated by the great drama which after having been staged by the emperor, was then presided over by him.

CAUSED 4-YEAR HECATOMB

Everything, even what concerns the most exalted personage, is blunted and diminished when placed beside the monstrous realities of the war. And is even the dirt caused by the collapse of a throne and the downfall of a dynasty in the midst of general contempt such as to ring long in human ears when, it sounds simultaneously with the sinister tumult of armies on the march, armies hurling themselves on the foe, armies that fall with victors and vanquished inextricably mixed, a hecatomb spread over four years?

Nevertheless, every stone helps in building a building, every investigation in revealing truth.

WHENCE COMES WILLIAM?

Whence then, comes the man, who has led the world to the greatest disaster in history, who would have hurled it into the abyss if immortal generations had not stood up in answer to the appeal to justice? Everybody—the most humble as well as the greatest, the purest as well as the most wretched, and, particularly, he whose power for evil has distinguished him from others—may deserve an investigation into his past and even an investigation reaching higher and further—probing into the annals of the race to which he belongs, his antecedents, his forebears. By what mysterious processes was this soul formed? What individuals composed the species to which he belonged and were his predecessors? What part was played by flaws and good points, glories and infamies? What role was played, after the birth and first and innocent education of the child, by the education given the youth and the grown man? What role was played by contact, by external teaching? One may investigate all this—one ought, in fact, to do so—no matter whether such a retrospective investigation help or hurt him who is its object.

"PARADES HAUGHTY PRIDE"

Whence came the man who today, after the disaster which he brought about, parades his haughty pride in the restricted refuge allowed him by a hospitality that is scandalous?

A formidable castle, a citadel, palace and prison, massive and severe, fierce and chill, was the first shelter of that race which swooped down from this fastness, in the twelfth century, to prey upon the region roundabout, just as later on, triumphant and insolent, widening the scope of its plundering raids, it sought to prey upon the world. Such was the cradle of the Hohenzollerns.

From this lofty stronghold, the memory of which was often recalled by the emperor himself, the Hohenzollerns sallied forth, first, to the conquest of Germany. It is a known fact that the motto still to be seen upon the romantic works of restoration of King Frederick William IV. is "from the mountain to the sea." This was the slogan of the tribe. Likewise, be it understood, the aforementioned stronghold was, for centuries, like those of other German nobles, a nest of robbers, who made raids upon the surrounding plains, enriching themselves by means of murder and pillage. Their law was the law of force, the law of the fist.

"POWER BY PERFIDY"

Toward the end of the thirteenth century, the Hohenzollerns became Landgraves of Nuremberg. Is it necessary to recall that Burgrave Frederick William was destined to receive Brandenburg, a flat land, poor of soil, which Frederick II. called the "sandpit" of Germany, a land without commerce or industries? Long and arduous indeed were the efforts of the Hohenzollerns to be ere they burst asunder these fetters, left behind this desert, increased this domain, added to the greatness of their clan and augmented their power—efforts, these, made up of strokes of violence, perfidy, pleadings and threats—a policy, in short, quite similar to that employed by them later on, when their activities had been transferred to a larger stage. Already fortune had smiled upon these men when an outlet on the Rhine had been given them (1614); thus the means for gaining riches and waging war lay ready to their hand.

Under the Great Elector (1640) and up to the death of Frederick II. (1786) all was destined to please and profit the Hohenzollerns. As unscrupulous allies of the Poles, Swedes, French, Bavarians, Russians and Saxons, they betrayed each of these in turn, violated treaties, and inaugurated, in short, that policy of the future which was really placed on a firm footing in 1700, when they caused themselves to be recognised as kings of Prussia, becoming thus the equals of other kings and raising Prussia, at the death of Frederick II., to equal rank with the great nations.

GROWTH OF MILITARY STATE

Thus it was that the conception arose, in this rude cradle, of the military state, which was to become strengthened, to spread, to transmit itself in the shape of a powerful and formidable heritage. This conception traversed the seventeenth and nineteenth centuries, and flashed forth, with sinister light, in 1870 and 1914. Having withstood everything—the noble evolution of ideas, the revolutionary movement which regenerated Europe—it sought, finally, to tear liberty to pieces in a tremendous struggle.

With this historical spectacle upon which to feast his eyes—those eyes set ever more fixedly upon the gratification of mad ambitions—beset by the intoxication emanating from it, dazzled by its gleam, Emperor William II. grew up from the earliest days of his childhood; he was drunk from such influences on the day of his coronation.

KIANGSI SITUATION

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, January 11.—General Sun Chuan-fang is apparently working to establish himself in Kiangsi and drive out General Tsai Cheng-shun. At present General Sun Chuan-fang is consolidating his position south of Nanchang. His forces are much superior to General Tsai Cheng-shun's hence the latter will probably be forced to withdraw from the province without fighting.

Philatelic Society Holds Meeting

The Shanghai Philatelic Society held its fortnightly meeting at the hall of the Royal Asiatic Society on Museum Road Wednesday afternoon when Mr. William C. Divers, the secretary, gave an interesting lecture on the Mulready envelope and its caricatures.

A quantity of Mulready envelopes and caricatures were exhibited by the lecturer. He explained the designs and the opportunities of the anti-church, temperance, political and foreign mission parties to have a fling at their opponents by issuing covers in ridiculous designs. The Mulready envelopes had a brief existence of a few weeks and were killed by ridicule.

Mr. Divers displayed his specialised collection of the stamps of Great Britain, which showed the evolution from the crude pre-Victorian postmark to the stamps of the present day. The collections of plate numbers and penny blacks were much admired.

The next meeting of the Society will be held at the Royal Asiatic Hall on Wednesday, January 24. These meetings are open to the public and all interested in philately are cordially invited to attend.

At the close of the meeting yesterday Mr. Divers was voted a hearty vote of thanks for his interesting and instructive lecture and the opportunity he gave for examination of his excellent collection.

South China Is Against Trial Here

Olympics even stronger in the past.

A letter was sent to the Hongkong men suggesting that they meet the Northerners in Shanghai, where the men for the China team would be named.

The Hongkong Chinese can not make the trip. In a letter to Dr. J. H. Gray, who is in charge of the China team, Secretary Wong Hiu Wan states that many of the players are business men who are unable to get away for the tryouts here and urges that trial games be played in Hongkong. He offers every inducement for Northern players to make the trip.

The Southern Chinese teams are playing in the Hongkong Football League. The shield matches follow. The latter do not finish until early in May, which makes it impossible for the Southerners to leave Hongkong or sacrifice the opportunity to play in the shield competition.

Wong asks that the Cantonese team which has won the football championship at all the Olympic Games be selected to represent China again. He opposes tryouts in Shanghai as he fears some of his men may be injured and he submits that a mixed team of Northern and Southern Chinese would not be so effective.

DR. MCCRACKEN IS SPEAKER AT ROTARY MEETING

Tells Of Proposed Union Medical College For This City

Dr. J. C. McCracken, Dean of the Medical School at St. John's University, speaking before the Shanghai Rotary Club at the weekly meeting yesterday, urged support for the proposed Shanghai Union Medical College, which is planned for this city at a cost of one million dollars.

In coming to his subject, the need of such an institution in Shanghai Dr. McCracken traced the history of medical education in China from the time when Peter Parker arrived in Canton 80 years ago and established the first hospital. He told of Western medical men starting dispensaries, developing hospitals and later founding medical schools, and detailed the high lights of the interesting history of advances made in medicine in this country. "There are 362 hospitals in Shanghai conducted by and between two and three million people are treated annually, foreigners," Dr. McCracken said.

The speaker told of the early difficulties encountered with the superstitions of the people and the Chinese standards of medicine. "Today Western medicine is respected and educated Chinese desire to become doctors," he said.

Dr. McCracken then pointed out the opportunity a union medical college in Shanghai offerred to four universities and eight colleges within 400 miles of Shanghai. None of them is able to support a properly equipped institution to train physicians.

In asking that Rotarians show an interest in the proposed college, Dr. McCracken asserted that the progress of China depends largely on her medical profession.

Secretary P. E. Merriam of the Navy Y. M. C. A. spoke on recent events at Vladivostok. He will be heard at length at some future meeting of the Rotary Club.

Congressman Dyer Arrives Today; To Be Tiffin Guest Jan. 17

Congressman L. C. Dyer of Missouri, father of the China Trade Act, will arrive in Shanghai on the President Grant today for a few days visit before proceeding on to Tientsin, Peking and Hankow investigating American commercial conditions, according to information received yesterday.

Congressman Dyer will be greeted by President Harold Dollar and the Board of Directors of the American Chamber of Commerce upon his arrival. Local business men will be given an opportunity of meeting the Congressman at a tiffin to be given at the Union Club on January 17. Congressman Dyer will speak, and reservations may be made now with Secretary Lewis of the American Chamber, 3 Canton Road.

The American Chamber is planning on sending a delegation of twenty to Nanking with Congressman Dyer when they will be entertained by Tuchun Chi and the two Chinese Chambers of Commerce.

Hawaiian Music At Victoria Theater Beginning Saturday

Kani's Royal Hawaiian Troubadors, exponents of famous Hawaiian melodies and novelties will open for a short engagement at the Victoria Theater on Saturday night. The Hawaiians who come to Shanghai under the direction of Bandman's, have just completed a two years tour through the Far East and are beginning a fresh tour with a number of new musicians and dancers recruited in Honolulu. The program includes modern musical, vocal and instrumental selections, and some of the ancient Hawaiian melodies.

"La Boheme"

La Boheme will be given at the Olympic tonight by the Italian Opera Company. This is one of Puccini's finest operas, being part of Murger's La Vie Boheme which depicts life in the "Quartier Latin", or the Students' Quarters, in 1830. It was first produced in English at Manchester (Carl Rosa Co.) on April 22, 1897, and at Covent Garden with the same Company during October of the same year. The first important production in Italian was that given by Melba's Company in Philadelphia on December 29, 1898. It was also produced in 1907 at the Metropolitan, with Caruso, Sembrich and Scotti.

The principal characters tonight will be taken by the following artists: Mlle. Aida Ballarin, Miss Ambroso, Sig. Giorgi, Sig. Manceri, Mario Contini, Sig. Manceri, Mario Contini,

Will Extend Lift Inspection Service

Provisions for inspection of lifts by the Public Works Department may be considered when amendment of the Bye-laws is next considered by the Council, according to information contained in the current Municipal Gazette.

The Council, in their last meeting, were informed by Mr. N. O. Liddell, Secretary and Commissioner-General, that little advantage is taken of the present arrangement by which the P.W.D. makes inspections of lifts without fee upon request. The dpeartment's staff at the present time however, is not adequate to handle all probable inspections but is expected to be within a month.

ACKNOWLEDGE GIFTS

The Secretary of the Foreign Women's Home wishes to acknowledge with thanks the following sums:

$50.00 from Mrs. R. Beebee.

Kiangyu Disabled Upriver; All On Board Are Safe

The China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company have received a cable from their Hankow Agency last Tuesday that the steamer Kiangyu, bound from Hankow to Shanghai, is in the shallow waters near Whangchau, 53 miles from Hankow, with engine trouble. All on board are safe. The Kiangfoo has been dispatched to the spot to take over the passengers, and the Kianghsin is going there for cargo. The vessel may go back to Hankow for repairs, as the River is too low and it is quite dangerous for the disabled boat to be brought down to this port.

NOTICE

Consumers are recommended during the winter months, to close at night the stopcock inside their houses, and to empty the cold water piping by opening all the cold water taps in order to minimise the danger of pipes and fittings being burst by frost with consequent damage to walls and furniture.

The Company is at all times prepared to show consumers the stopcock referred to.

The Company wishes it to be clearly understood that, in the event of any damage to the pipes and/or fittings due to frost or any other cause, the cost of repairing same will be charged to the consumer.

Under no conditions must a tap or taps be allowed to run to waste, and consumers are reminded that, under the terms and conditions of contract signed by them, the Company has power, in the event of water being so wasted, to discontinue the supply without notice.

Surgeons Find Way To Cut Into Heart To Enlarge Valve

(China Press Service)

New York, Jan. 5.—One of the most serious forms of heart disease is that in which the valves become united, leaving too small an orifice for blood to pass through them.

As yet this has been an incurable condition. Two American surgeons have recently shown at Washington University how it is possible in living animals to divide these valves.

The heart itself cannot be cut, but Dr. Allen and Dr. Graham found that a hole could be snipped in one of the earlike appendages of the heart through which an instrument containing a small lancet could be passed down to the valves, which could then be divided.

On the lancet being withdrawn the tiny wound was brought together by a purse-string.

Reed Wants U. S. 'Observer' Recalled

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Jan. 10.—In the Senate today Senator Reed (Democrat) advocated the recall of Mr. Boyden, the American representative on the Reparations Commission, declaring that "an unofficial meddler" was capable of as much harm as an official spokesman.

Note: It will be remembered that Mr. Boyden in a pronouncement at the meeting of the Reparations Commission on January 9 expressed the opinion that the Treaty was impossible of fulfilment and urged an equitable readjustment of Germany's obligations.

Japanese Guards To Leave By March

(China Press Service)

Tokio, Jan. 9.—Japan has decided to withdraw railway guards stationed in Manchuria. Evacuation will start in April and will be completed by March, 1925. Two battalions south of Liaoyong will leave within a year; two others south of Tienhling and along the Mukden-Antung Railway will withdraw in 1924, two battalions north of Tiehling and the headquarters will leave early in 1925.

Evacuation will mean the discharge of 3,765 officers and soldiers and the sale of 275 horses. In 1923 Y607,323 will be saved by this step, and the amount will reach Y1,260,982 in 1924 and Y1,983,027 in 1925.

Soviet To Gather Old States Into One

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, January 10.—The Constituent Assembly of the New Soviet Republic at Moscow has decided that, with the exception of Poland, Finland, Lettonia, Lithuania and Esthonia, all the other parts of the former Russian Empire, which have become autonomous republics in the course of the revolution, shall henceforth form a single State under the hegemony of Moscow.

Foreigners Demand Bandit Indemnity

(China Press Service)

Peking, Jan. 10.—The Diplomatic Corps has addressed a despatch to the Waichiaopu (Ministry of Foreign Affairs), enclosing a statement of the amount of losses and damages sustained by foreign nationals in consequence of the recent bandit movement in Honan. The indemnities claimed totals over $5,000,000.

The Waichiaopu is informed that this figure is based on claims filed with the different Legations by their respective nationals.

The Diplomatic Corps demands that the Chinese Government shall appoint forthwith commissioners to investigate the claims of the foreign nationals with a view to effecting a speedy settlement.

172 Indians Are Sentenced To Die

(Reuter's Service)

Lucknow, Jan. 10.—The cases of murder and arson arising from the "non-co-operation" attack on the police-station in the Chauri-chaura district of Gorakhpur in February have been concluded.

Out of the 228 accused 47 have been acquitted, 172 sentenced to death, two sentenced to two years' imprisonment, six have died under trial and one has been discharged.

Russ And American News Agencies Join

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, Jan. 9.—A contract has been signed between the Rosta News Agency and the American United Press Association providing for the exchange of information between Russia and America.

It may be recalled that a similar contract was concluded last summer between Rosta and the German Wolf's Agency.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

January 11, 1923

Spot bar silver was down ⅜d. and forward ⅜d. in London yesterday. The New York price declined to 64⅝ cents and the London-New York cross rate as given in the ordinary wires despatched from New York at the close of the market there was 466¼, however, a late wire states that business was done after the close at 467¼.

Our official Sterling rate this morning was dropped to 3-0¼, the Gold Dollar rate to 70½ the Yen rate raised to 70 and the other rates changed accordingly.

Our market here today was on the easy side at the opening but steadied up slightly during the course of the day. There were generally sellers of Sterling at 3-0⅝ January delivery, 3-0⅝ February and 3-0¼ March. There were sellers of Gold Dollars at 71¼ January, 71⅛ February and 71 forforward delivery.

Some business was done at higher rates than these but there were always buyers at ⅛d. for Sterling and ¼ point for Gold Dollars above these quotations, and in fact at the close there were probably buyers at the lower rates mentioned.

There were sellers of Yen generally throughout the day at 68½ for January delivery and buyers at 68¼, and sellers of March at 69 with buyers at 68⅜.

Banks were quoting 3s. 1½d. and 73¼ for Sterling and Gold Dollar bills for delivery prior to China New Year and 3s. 1¼d. and 72¾ for subsequent deliveries. There were buyers of France bills at 1060.

India and China both sold silver in London yesterday and the market is reported as closing easy. There was no business in the New York market.

Exchange Market

In their weekly report on the exchange market, Messrs. Maitland, Pearon and Brand write as follows:

Exchange:—After comparatively violent fluctuations the London price of silver for spot at 31⅛ is ⅛d. higher than this day last week. There is again a difference of 1d. between "spot" and two months forward silver in London. Our official rate for T.T. on London went to 3s. 1d. on the 5th inst. but has since receded to 3s. 0½d. which is approximately the parity of London forward silver. The course of our exchange market has been irregular throughout the week, the Banks only appearing as good seller when cover was offered in the shape of resales of Gold T.T. by our local Gold dealers. There is very little cover, other than this in the market and we close uncertain with 3s. 0⅞d. offering for cash T.T. on London, 3s. 0¾d. Jan., 3s. 0½d. March and 3s. 0¼d. forward.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 22,783,000, a decrease of Tls. 2,217,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $33,310,000, an increase of $3,310,000.

Estimated value Tls. 46,766,000 as against Tls. 46,207,000 held at this time last year.

Coal Market

In their fortnightly report on the Coal market, Messrs. Wheelock and Company state:

JANAN COAL

Since last writing the New Year holidays have intervened and consequently there has been no business done worth speaking about. The market is very quiet and is likely to continue so now until after the China New Year which takes place about the middle of February.

KAIPING COAL

The situation in the North remains much the same with regard to transportation facilities between mines and port of shipment. Coal is, however, coming through more regularly but passing straight into consumption and stocks are still low. Last year's contracts have been renewed at slightly advanced prices.

Freight Market

In their fortnightly report on the freight market, Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows:

We have again no change to report as all the berths to Europe and America have been very quiet owing to the holidays which have intervened since last writing.

COASTWISE

There is no change to report in our Northern market and according to advices from Hongkong the position is no better in the South.

French Troops In Essen

THE French are in Essen. They are taking over the Ruhr District, and ordering the Germans to provide military trains for them. And this, the Germans, tearing their hair, are doing. Conference after Conference has been held to prevent this very thing. The London and Paris Conferences have been the latest, and the League of Nations apparently is nowhere.

The proposals of the German Government have been rejected as being too indefinite; on the other hand, the French demand was not endorsed because it was far too definite. The French Government had made it clear some time ago that it would consent to no moratorium for Germany unless it held in its own hands the most positive "guarantees" that Germany would ultimately pay. This was understood to mean a further military occupation of German territory. To such a step the new British Government declined to lend its sanction.

To understand the precise program and the firm resolve with which M. Poincare proceeded it is necessary only to read an article in the semi-official Temps of November 26. It was entitled "France Will Have What She Takes." This is a long exposition of German promises broken and French hopes frustrated. The conclusion was that France must enforce her rights. She was entirely friendly toward the idea of an international loan in aid of Germany, but insisted on some valid security that Germany would in the end make the reparations payments to which she had pledged herself. Her word or her bond would not be enough. The final declaration of Le Temps, which so often speaks for the French Government, was in the following language:

"Whatever the outlook for a German loan, it seems to us that France cannot grant a moratorium to Germany for the sums due next January without having guarantees in her hand. The French have been patient. They are not paid. They are insulted. Arrangements are proposed which under cover of balancing the German budget would make the French budget head for bankruptcy. We have had enough of this. Since we shall not get what we do not take, let us take it."

It was seemingly a hazardous policy of this sort which M. Poincare put forward at London and Paris, and which Bonar Law refused to entertain. The result was a postponement of the conference in the hope that wiser counsels would in the end prevail. No one can blame the French for being exasperated by their repeated failures to secure their just dues. Any nation in their place would be as exigent as they in demanding that their rights be made secure.

But the question is whether some other form of guarantee than a further military seizure of German mines and industries could not have been given them in a way to secure their claims and at the same time not further to unsettle an international situation already perilous.

Thus we witness more than another diplomatic failure. America is alienated and shows it by withdrawing her troops from the Rhine. What are the orders for the British troops?

Correspondence

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Sir:—

As you are aware, I am offering myself as a British Candidate for the French Municipal Council at the forthcoming elections, and I should be very grateful for the hospitality of your columns in order to put my views before the electors.

This year no startling questions are agitating the community of the French Concession, but if elected my policy would be as progressive as is consistent with the strict economy which the present times render imperative.

A marked improvement has taken place in recent months with regard to light and water, but these services still leave much to be desired. During the last few days the residents of the French Concession have again been supplied with water of a most unwholesome color, and though we are in the middle of winter there is obviously insufficient water available for the frequent and thorough cleaning of the streets so necessary to public health.

In my opinion the Light and Water Company should concentrate its energies on the water question, as it is quite able to satisfy all the lighting requirements of the French Concession, and can purchase all additional current required for other purposes from the Electricity Department of the S.M.C. more cheaply than it can produce it.

Warfare against mosquitoes and the prompt removal of house garbage are both questions requiring attention, and it should not be difficult to arrange to have all the early morning unsavory little vehicles off the streets before the daily stream of office-goers commences.

If elected, I should endeavor to do my utmost to represent the small householders of the French Concession and to keep their point of view continually before the Council. The present is emphatically not the time for any increase in taxes.

It is unnecessary for me to draw attention to my friendship for the French, in whose splendid concession we dwell, and it is just as necessary to preserve and strengthen the entente cordiale in Shanghai as it is in Europe.

You yourself have laid special stress in a recent leading article on the fact that five candidates for the French Municipal Council have held a meeting and arranged to put their names before the electors on the same list. This will doubtless save some electors a little trouble, but I venture to hope that there will be many others who themselves prefer to select five names from the full list of candidates rather than vote en bloc for a council selected in some secluded spot.

I am, etc.,
C. A. Stiff

Are You Too Self-Satisfied?

BY J. J. MUNDY

Perfectly satisfied with yourself, eh?

Made quite a lot of yourself, you think—much more than many men you know, who had the same or a poorer beginning?

If this is your state of mind, your progress has stopped.

It is the man dissatisfied with himself who goes forward.

You did work hard for a while to get where you are, and it may be better than you expected; but it is far less than others have accomplished who have had the same handicaps.

Doing less than your best—and yet you have settled back in the traces.

The world is advancing, and if you are not going forward, it is backward. You are always going.

You may do well in your chosen line, but if you do not progress broader in your profession, you are not keeping up

If you have amassed sufficient to meet your needs for the remainder of your life, you can with safety reduce pressure on yourself; but you cannot afford to let up if you have yet to get together enough to see you through.

It now appears that the ex-Kaiser got a new gland before he was married. A goat gland, we take it?

Oh, you Billy!

Speaking of the arrival of Congressman Dyer today he made a speech in Manila in favor of the independence of the islands which caused our old friend C. Russel Zeininger of The Bulletin to remark that "We might have remembered that these Dyers are folks who spend their lives trying to color things." The Bulletin, we surmise, is opposed to independence.

A society of rebellious American husbands under the name of the "Association of Brothers Under The Skin" have just applied for a charter in the United States under which they propose to agitate:

(1)—to protect the husband from the performance of household duties.

(2)—to prevent purchases by wife, either by cash or credit, without consultation with husband.

(3)—to give husband legal right to set length of skirt and hair of wife.

(4)—to limit the rights of wifely relatives to enter homes except upon written consent of husbands.

Reflections After Attending A Wedding Yesterday p.m.

The man you marry is just raw material, making a husband out of a bridegroom is one of the fine arts practiced exclusively by the female sex.

A husband, or a wife, is an honest mirrow, which tells us a lot of truths we'd rather not know.

Before marriage a man feels cruel to permit a woman to weep without comforting her. After marriage he knows it would be far more cruel to interrupt her little enjoyments that way.

Rain and swift lightning, thunder and the sea,
Sand and dust and ashes are less free!

If so you will, may you take leave of me.
Yours is your life, and what you will shall be.
I ask no question: hasten or be slow!

The Strong Men Of Russia

Personality Of Lenin Overshadows All Others—Trotsky's Influence Is Easily Second—Other Leaders Sketched

In this article Frank P. Walsh, the noted Irish-American liberal leader, who was recently in Russia, gives his impressions of the men who dominate the Soviet regime. This article is one of a series Mr. Walsh is writing for the American press.

BY FRANK P. WALSH

The personality of Nicolai Lenin overshadows all others in Russia. Even in retirement he is all powerful.

Everything Russian is run by committees, or what they call presidiums, which is the same thing. When Lenin's colleagues came to the conclusion a few months ago that he was on the verge of a nervous breadown from overwork, they solemnly appointed a committee of three to take charge of him. He was sequestered in a beautiful estate about thirty minutes' ride in a machine from the center of Moscow. No one was permitted to call upon him except his wife and the committee who had him in charge.

He is affectionately referred to in business and government circles as the "old man." It was the duty of the committee during his retirement to epitomise all important matters and present them to him each Wednesday and Sunday afternoon. His last word seems supreme. When friction arose between department heads which could not be reconciled it was always: "Put it up to the old man," or, "Wait until the old man gets back on the job."

The chairman of his committee laughed uproariously as I related the American newspaper gossip that he was paralysed, that he had died weeks ago and been secretly buried, and so on. The chairman of the committee said as he stepped into the automobile for one of his biweekly visits to Lenin:

"All of those rumors will be exploded two weeks from next Monday. We have the assurance of the doctors that on that day he will be back at his desk as fit as a fiddle." The prediction was verified to the day and hour.

TROTSKY IS SECOND

Trotsky easily comes next in personality and influence. His very person symbolises power. The war department over which he presides is the most up-to-date one in Russia. The building is almost as large as the War and Navy Building in Washington.

Trotsky has grown stouter in the recent months. His office and his surroundings are entirely modern. The stairs and hallways leading to his offices are thickly carpeted. The offices themselves are equipped with handsome furniture and costly rugs. Trotsky has an easy affability of manner, but seems quite punctilious of form. He gives all of his interviews through the foreign office. His personal staff and the guards around the building are the last word in snappy uniforms and equipment.

It is far more difficult to get to see him than it is any cabinet official in Washington. He is a familiar figure on the streets of Moscow. He rides alone in the rear seat of a big Pierce-Arrow car, usually in naval uniform, with the chauffeur and a soldier on the front seat. They ignore all speed regulations. The crowds at the corners of the streets cheer him as he flies by.

LENIN'S SUBSTITUTE

The man who took Lenin's job in his absence is Alexei Ivanovitch Rykov. He is a little chap with a sandy Van Dyke beard, big white teeth and a smile that just will not come off. His job immediately following the revolution was commissioner of home affairs. He was afterward president of the supreme council of people's economy. In size and appearance he might be taken for a twin brother of Lincoln Steffens, the writer. Here, too, you have to pierce a cordon of doorkeepers and secretaries to get to see him; but when you do, he gives you the impression of being pleased with his job and tickled to death that you dropped in. He is the "efficiency hound" of the soviet government. He has a modern buzzer system in his office and is constantly touching buttons, which causes tunicked department heads and secretaries to appear, as though they were automatically popped out of near-by compartments.

If you strike any snags with other officials you just call on Rykov and tell him your troubles. He is only forty years old, but his life since 1907 has been one continuous round of political exile, banishment and jails. Four solid years he spent in solitary confinement. The impresion in Moscow is that he filled Lenin's job admirably. He was also chairman of the committee which had charge of Lenin while he was recuperating.

THE COMMUNIST BOSS

One of the grim figures of Russia is Stalien. He is the big boss of the Communist party and chairman of the all-Russian executive committee. His is an all-the-year-round job. He has his office on the top floor of the First House of the Communist party, as the headquarters are called. The building is as large as that which houses any government department in Moscow. In appearance he is a pocket-edition of the late President Diaz of Mexico, when that potentate was in the prime of power. Stalien is as swarthy as an Indian, but without the Tartaric features of so many Russians. He has a soldierly bearing, scrupulously neat, with jet black hair cut pompadour and high above his forehead. All of the clothes on his back wouldn't bring $3 in a second-hand clothing store in America. He wore a blue suit of military type, coat buttoned to the neck, and faded almost to a light purple. The collarless band of his white cotton shirt, immaculately clean, showed above the military collar of his coat, with a cheap white metal trousers button closing it in front.

HOLDS PRONOUNCED VIEWS

He discussed world politics, American relief and the growth of the Third Internationale of the Communists. His views on every subject are pronounced. He sits, entirely alone, at a cheap, flat-topped desk in a large, bare-looking room, with uncarpeted floor. It has a large council table in the center, at which sits the executive committee of the all-Russian Communist party supreme today in all matters political in Russia.

Karakhan, in the absence of Chitcherin, is the head of the foreign office in Moscow. He is easily the handsomest man among the soviet officials. He is 6 feet tall, splendidly proportioned and groomed and tailored to the last inch. He is an Armenian by extraction, wears a flowing mustache and small chin beard, and has a head of wavy "patent leather" hair, which would be the envy of a Broadway dancer.

On an historic occasion he was bitingly referred to by one of his confreres (I believe it was Radek) as "that donkey of classical beauty." He has the reputation of being a moderate and looks the part.

I was in his office on the morning he received the unofficial note of our government, through our ambassador at Berlin, inquiring as to whether or not an American committee of experts on industry and commerce would be welcomed by his government. He discussed the letter freely, voicing the policy which he afterwards embodied in the reply, i.e., that the proposed committee would be welcome, but that such action would have to be reciprocal on the part of the two governments; this seemed to put an end to the proposition.

A week before I left Berlin for Moscow the German government turned over to the soviet republic the old Russian embassy in the Unter den Linden, one of the largest and stateliest foreign embassies in the capital, and it is from this building that the foreign affairs of Russia are really being handled.

At a richly carved mahogany desk in a lavishly decorated room fifty feet square in this embassy sits George Chitcherin, who succeeded Trotsky as minister of foreign affairs. He comes from a family of nobles which served the czar in the Moscow foreign office for generations. He is a glutton for work. He is at his desk every day from twelve to sixteen hours. He meets visitors in the late afternoon and works practically all night. He is the traditional diplomat in appearance; tall, slightly stooping figure, cutaway coat, striped trousers and the inevitable shoespats of European diplomacy. He speaks in modulated English like a Back Bay Bostonian.

Krassin has his office in the same building. Before he headed the commission of foreign trade and industry, he was president of the committee for supplying the needs of the Russian army and afterwards in charge of the rehabilitation of the Russian railroads.

KRASSIN AN ENGINEER

He is an engineer by profession, a quiet, elderly person, who looks very much the European business man.

In Moscow Krassin is the subject of much criticism on the alleged ground that he seemed willing to make too many concessions to the powers, and was overanxious to secure the aid of the big capitalists of the world for Russia's rehabilitation.

Krestinsky, Russian ambassador to Germany, was formerly the commissar of finance under the soviets. He is short and dark, with a closely cropped mustache, large, bone-rimmed spectacles, and dresses more like a banker than a Communist. He is a goodhumored individual, operates through a large staff of assistants and fairly exudes cordiality and efficiency.

His engaging personality may account for the fact that he seems to be extremely popular with the militant group in Russia, as well as the higher-ups of the Communist party, although he is one who has insisted that Russia would have to pay her debts and has warmly advocated the establishment of harmonious business relations with foreign government and investors.

RUSSIA'S STRONG MAN

One of the strong men of Russia of whom little or nothing has been written is Alexander Vladimir Eiduck. He is the foreign plenipotentiary for famine relief, and has a close touch with every outside country that is helping Russia. His is an almost gigantic figure physically—bluff, hearty, laughing man of thirty-eight or forty, who affects blue double-breasted suits of modern cut and looks a high-class tug-boat captain in the New York Harbor. His official headquarters on Spinadonvka Boulevard, built of gray stone, covers a half block. It was formerly the palace of one of the nobles of prerevolutionary days. It is next door to the headquarters of the American Relief Association. It is a part of his job to smooth the pathway for the work of that organisation in Russia. He is a stout advocate of the idea that, with a little help from the outside world, Russian agriculture and industry can sustain itself.

Mainly through his efforts, a great industrial corporation has been organised in Germany which proposes to have subsidiaries throughout Europe, as well as the United States.

He believes that the stocks and securities of such corporations can be floated largely among foreign workers, in small amounts, and that in this way the much needed capital for the reconstruction of Russian industry can be obtained, while paying a fair return to investors.

Many industrial and agricultural concessions were granted during the famine to the relief associations of other countries, Etinck is now placing these on a business basis, through the instrumentality of his Berlin corporation, so that famine relief, as mere charity, can be thrown into the discard.

He is a former officer in the soviet army, and fought in the revolution which overthrew the old government as well as in resistance to the counter-revolutions. He spends most of his time in Berlin: speaks Russian, French, German, with a fair smattering of English; he is an admirer of Americans.

THE EDUCATION MINISTER

Lunarcharsky, the minister of education, is one of the idols of the Russian masses. His department in addition to other duties has charge of all historic buildings, churches and palaces in Russia. The art treasures of the Kremlin and the Winter Palace are in his keeping. He has been bitter in his denunciation of looters and vandalism in all forms.

One of his side lines is that of special prosecutor of the revolutionary tribunal. I was present at the closing argument of the trial of the thirty-four social revolutionists, charged with treason, in the middle of August. Lunarcharsky's closing argiment took six hours for delivery. He looks about fifty years of age, stouter than any of his descriptions, but with a grayish, weary-looking face. His eyes are unusually mild and his expression sad. He spoke easily in unimpassioned tones, and with little gesticulation.

ONLY OF SKINS

In discussing the evidence of Ratnau and Semenov, the chief informers who appeared as witnesses for the government, he made frequent use of such expressions as: "grant if you will that these men are trying to save their own skins," and "even though Ratnau may be trying to save his own skin." At the conclusion of his remarkable address with almost death-like silence in the great court room, one of the accused men arose in the dock, with sarcasm written all over his features, and pointing at Lunarcharsky, said, "I would call the attention of the comrades to the fact that Lunarcharsky, who a year ago spoke of men's souls, under the new economic policy, now speaks only for their skins."

The audience of more than a thousand men and women, all hostile to the defendants, seemed to highly appreciate this sally and laughter swept the place. It was a genuine anticlimax, and the tired Lunarcharsky looked red and embarrassed as he dropped into his chair.

THE DIRECTOR OF TRIALS

Nicholas Eucharin, one of the best known figures in Russia, appeared in the same trial in the defense of Ratnau. He has a little alert figure, dressed neatly in modern clothing. He is the editor of Pravda, one of the two government newspapers in Moscow, a prolific author on economics and revolutions. He was the oratorical figure of the trial. His argument was the only one which brought applause from the spectators, which was quickly checked by the presiding judge.

Krylenko occupies a position under the commissar of justice comparable to our solicitor general. He directs all state trials. A little taller and a bit younger, he might be mistaken for Amos Pinchot. He is a scholarly-looking, well dressed person.

The popular impression in Moscow was that at least twenty of the defendants would be sentenced to death. From the arguments of the prosecutors, as well as the admissions made by the defendants in arguing their own cases, it appeared that the accused persons had taken part in various counter-revolutions and conspiracies to overthrow the present government in which thousands of lives were lost.

Twenty-five of them were convicted and sentenced to death in the trial, but a reprieve was immediately granted by the all-Russian executive committee, and they were remanded to prison, not to be executed unless "in case of a new counter-revolution."

AGAINST THE SOVIET

Throughout the trial the leading prisoners "stood pat" on all their past actions and beliefs. When the presiding judge at the close of the arguments interrogated each of the accused as to what his future conduct would be in case the death penalty was not inflicted, the unvarying answer was that their future lives would be devoted to the overthrow of the present soviet government.

Krylenko wound up his eight-hour argument in a burst of fervid oratory, quite American in quality and gesture. His peroration was a highly rhetorical demand for the death penalty. When he concluded one of the defendants, a rather tired-looking old man, arose and said: "Well, go ahead and put us to death; but why get so excited about it?"

Kurskin is the commissioner of justice. His duties are similar to those of our attorney general. His counterpart can be found in every large American city. In appearance he is the conventional "office lawyer." A respectable civil practitioner with few clients, he was tossed to the surface by the revolution. Garbed in modern clothes, somewhat seedy, he has the dyspeptic, dry-as-dust look of the lawyer who writes many briefs. His staff of assistants is as large as Attorney-General Daugherty's and his department occupies a building quite as large as our department of justice.

A FORMER CHICAGOAN

The present vice chairman of the supreme economic council and head of the presidium on concessions is Alexander Michailovich Krosnoschokov. He furnished one of my many surprises in Russia. When I called at his office I recognised him as a former citizen of Chicago, where he lived and practiced under the name of "Tobenson," a member of a prosperous law firm, until about six years ago. A Russian by birth, he returned to his native country through Siberia, immediately following the revolution, where he was the chief factor in the establishment of the Far East republic. Although a member of the Communist party himself, the first constituent assembly of the Far East republic was overwhelmingly opposed to the communistic idea. Krosnoschokov is said to have written the original constitution of the new state with his own hand. That document declares the inviolability of the rights of private property, and paraphrases the provisions of the constitution of the United States in its guarantees of personal and property rights. It also lays down the fundamental principles of the single tax of dealing with the land of the republic.

FIRST PRESIDENT OF F. E. R.

Krosnoschokov was elected the first president of the new republic and served in that capacity for more than three years. He resigned on account of ill health, and took up his residence in Moscow. Rapidly recovering, he assumed his present office.

Under the existing Russian law legalising private corporations, he has organised an educational corporation free of government interference, and secured a charter along the lines of those of Dartmouth, Yale and Harvard. He has assembled a staff of educators, almost all with American experience, and proposes to establish at least two colleges along the lines of our own, but with technical, agricultural and mechanical departments in which the students may work their way through school by tilling the soil and working at the mechanical trades.

Litvinov, Radke, Kamenev and the other governmental heads have been so often described and analysed that they look as familiar to an American as Henry Ford or Mayor Hylan.

Bureaus breed bureaucrats, and Russia certainly has hers.

If you succeed in running the gauntlet to the head of a department you usually find a man who is a deep student of government, even though a theorist. Frequently he is an old official or business man transplanted from the czarist government—simple and unaffected in dress and manner and eager to give information.

But Russia has in its various departments more assistants, secretaries, clerks and messengers than the average office in Washington. In the main these are ex-workers and peasants who have less experience, more pride of position and infinitely more suspicion than our civil service army.

About Civilised Apes

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

(Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest)

"Would the anthropoid ape evolve into a civilised creature by bringing him in contact with civilisation for an indefinite time? By 'contact' I mean having the simian live as much as possible as we live."—R. P. J. H.

If we knew more about the origin, and the basal nature of the difference between the human and the anthropoid, or simian, stocks a definite answer to your question might possibly be given.

In any case, if the answer were affirmative, it would be a triumph for the Lamarckian theory that acquired characters are inheritable, that new wants and desires, aroused by change of environment, stimulate the growth of new organs and, consequently, the modification of species, and that "all that has been acquired, laid down, or changed in the organisation of individuals in the course of their life, is conserved by generation and transmitted to the new individuals that proceed from those who have undergone the changes."

If that were all so, the celebrated ape, "John Daniel," who died in New York a year or so ago, should have been capable of giving rise to a race of "civilised apes," more closely resembling the human type, at least in their conduct and ways of life, than any apes or monkeys now in existence. But it would have to be an age-long process, occupying a stretch of time almost infinitely exceeding in length any that can be covered by human experience.

John Daniel's training did not give him the germ of any characteristics that he was unpossessed of before the training began. It simply developed powers that he had in him, but which would not have expressed themselves in just the way they did if he had grown up in the native habitat and amid the native surroundings of his race. But, if the Lamarckian hypothesis is sound, his experiences of the advantages of human society and supervision should have implanted in him some, however slight, tendency to evolutionary change which he could hand on to his descendants.

But the Lamarckian ideas have been under a cloud since Weissman's theory of heredity came to the front, for, according to that, "there is no inheritance of acquired characters." What the individual gains from his peculiar environment he may fully enjoy for himself, but he cannot hand on his gains to his descendants.

In this view we might picture John Daniel as personally introduced a little way across the threshold of the human paradise, the entry to which he could never have opened for his descendants. However far in civilisation he might himself have advanced, if his life had been prolonged indefinitely, his offspring would have had to start just as far back as he did. That is the teaching of pure Weissmanism.

On the other hand, the most extreme defender of Lamarck's theory would surely never think of assuming that John Daniel's descendants, in the best of circumstances, could ever evolve into human beings. It would be an ape civilisation that they would develop; more or less, it may be an imitation of the human but without its roots.

The two races would remain distinct, each depending on its own foregoing line of evolution. There could be no mingling of currents, or no combination of branches with complete loss of identity. The civilised ape and man might proceed along roughly parallel lines, but they would not blend into one.

We must look backward in order to find the meeting of evolutionary lines. The branches once separated do not unite again. They may influence one another, and some of them may run parallel, but their individuality is not lost. The horse has, we may say, become civilised, having acquired from human association and instruction habits of conduct, social character, and so to speak, "ideas," that have transformed its life, but it is not imaginable that the most teachable breed of horses, even under the operation of pure Lamarckian evolution, would ever blend into the human race, although the centaurs, made on imaginary approach to that idea.

Americans Plan School At Chefoo

(China Press Service)

Chefoo, Jan. 6.—The contract for the construction of the Memorial Hall of the China Inland Mission Schools was signed in the presence of several members of the Faculty. The hall is to be built as a memorial to the "Old Boys" of the schools who lost their lives fighting in Europe. Thirty-four of them paid the supreme sacrifice and quite a sprinkling of them were American boys. The contract for the construction of the building was secured by a firm of local contractors.

The cost of the new building, apart from the purchasing of the materials which the Committee responsible for the funds is buying will be $8,788. This does not, of course include furniture, which will have to be provided for.

The Memorial Hall will be erected on the open space of the C. I. M. Compound, between the Preparatory School and the Boys' School, but it will be placed far enough away to prevent its being dominated by the other and larger buildings. As there are no trees in the near vicinity of this area speakers and preachers in the new hall should not be troubled by the cicadas.

The local American community is said to be formulating plans for the commencement of an American school which is needed in Chefoo. Apart from the missionary community, a good proportion of which is composed of Americans, there are an increasing numbering of American business men in this port. The C. I. M. Schools have met a need, but they do not attempt to cater for American children. They are run entirely on the lines of the English schools. Students who do not enter for the Oxford local examinations do not get the full benefits that the Schools give.

It is no secret that at present there is dissatisfaction with the Schools. They have no physical and chemical laboratories, and no gymnasium and there are none of the modern improvements that even Chinese Schools in this Province possess. It is not surprising that the local American residents are thinking of a school that will give their children what they would be certain to get if they were living in the United States.

Chefoo is a health resort and it hardly seems the thing for American children to be sent to other places in China for their education. Yet this is occurring in Chefoo today because this city lacks an American educational institution for foreign children.

Chefoo Lifts Ban On Japanese Goods

(China Press Service)

Chefoo, Jan. 6.—The Chefoo Welhsien Motor Road is completed and cars are now running. One of them is reported to have met with an accident last week, but none of the occupants of the crowded car suffered any injury. The new service is well patronized and the Chinese are getting the road completed. Chefoo should soon feel its benefits and trade and industry receive an impetus.

The boycott of Japanese goods is now terminated, though it is questionable whether this will result in a boom for Japanese wares. The people here seem much averse to buying anything made or imported by the Japanese. The boycott hit the local Japanese shopkeepers and merchants very severely and they say they are more than pleased that the rendition of Tsingtao has brought it to an end.

The Governor of the Province is reported to be arranging for the construction of radio stations with a view to policing Shantung efficiently. Apparatus for the construction of four large stations is said to have been sent to Tsinanfu.

The only foreign daily paper published in this big province reports that wolves have been seen in Chefoo and that at least one of our residents has been disturbed by them. The cold weather of the last few weeks doubtless accounts for the presence of these beasts.

Passengers Tour Japan By Rail Without Charge

The local office of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha announces that an arrangement has been made so that passengers holding first or second class tickets from here to Japan are privileged to break the sea journey and travel by rail instead of by steamer, without any further charge excepting the transit tax levied by the Central Government, and the extra charges for tickets by express trains, sleepers and meals. This covers the whole or part of the journey between Tokio, Yokohama, Kobe, Moji and Nagasaki. Tickets will be issued on application either on board the steamer or at the company's branch office where passengers connect with the railway.

Such passengers may also have the additional facility that their baggage, within the limit of free conveyance, will be transported by the steamer.

You Will Do a Better Day's Work!

—and you will feel fitter and fresher all day—if you begin the day with Sanatogen.

In these days of keen competition, the man who "wins through" is the man who does a better day's work than his competitors.

When you come to analyse it, the quantity and quality of the work you do depends, to a large extent, on the amount of nerve-energy you possess. It is nerve-energy that enables you to make the most of your brains, and supplies the "driving power" essential to success.

Now, Sanatogen definitely increases nerve-energy—does not merely stimulate or excite but increases it to a remarkable degree. The result is that when you take Sanatogen you do more and better work than you have been accustomed to do. Nor is this a temporary effect; it continues day by day, week by week.

Dr. Claude L. Wheeler says:—

"The user of Sanatogen is richly rewarded in freedom from langour, a gain of strength and activity, a keenness of mind, and an increased resisting power to diseases"

Begin by Taking Sanatogen Regularly Every Morning with or After Breakfast

This will enable you to acquire that extra nerve-energy which spells success in every business and profession; which gives you a zest and a delight in your work; which makes you keen and concentrated, alert and self confident, and thus gives you the power to realise your ambitions.

Take the first step today, not tomorrow—now not presently. Sanatogen can be obtained of all Chemists and Dispensaries.

DECEMBER HEALTH REPORT SHOWS 24 FOREIGNERS DIED

669 Chinese Also Died Last Month—General Health Better

Only 24 foreigners in Shanghai died during the month of December as compared with 68 in the same month last year, and Shanghai's health is remarkably good, according to the monthly health report of Dr. C. Noel Davis, Commissioner of Public Health.

Of the deaths only one resulted from an infectious disease, beriberi, among the resident population. Three non-residents died of infectious diseases, two of influenza and one of typhoid fever. Deaths from all causes among Chinese totaled 669, the toll of infectious diseases being 73 from tuberculosis, 2 of diptheria, 3 of dysentery, 4 of influenza and one each of scarlet fever and measles.

"The present year opened with threatenings of a serious outbreak of smallpox, but closed with the disease practically absent," Dr. Davis reports.

"Frequently, absence of smallpox leads to neglect of vaccination, followed by a gradual accumulation of non-immune material, a flare-up of the disease, panic, and a stampede for vaccination.

"It is a fact that the number of infants vaccinated in England and Wales has declined from 66.4 percent of births in 1899, to 39.5 per cent in 1920.

"This condition of things has led to several outbreaks, in one of which the mortality was over 20 percent, and in the event of smallpox becoming prevalent, is fraught with the gravest consequences.

"In China, smallpox infection is always present, and vaccination should be reported every 3 years so as to maintain a high standard of immunity.

"At the Branch Health Offices 4,147 free vaccinations were done during the month, making the total number for the year very nearly 30,000.

"Owing to the almost complete absence of the communicable diseases which usually require isolation in hospital, the Municipal Isolation Hospitals were practically empty—an unprecedented event for December.

"Influenza, in comparatively mild form, has been prevalent. Hardly anyone has escaped. The disease itself probably never kills, but its complications, usually pneumonia, are deadly.

"It has been estimated that in the world-wide pandemic of 1918-19 there were 200 million cases and 10 million deaths in less than 12 months; the destruction of human life by influenza was greater than by the Great War.

"Hygiene and sanitation have practically no effect in controlling the disease. It occurs at all seasons of the year, but chiefly in the colder weather. It is usually transmitted from person to person, at close contact, in infected droplets sprayed from throat and nose. The incubation period is short, the virus is intensely infective, and all persons are equally susceptible; weak and strong; young and old; clean and dirty; rich and poor. Epidemics break out with explosive violence.

"Isolation in bed under the doctor's care during the febrile stage, is the best way to prevent complications, and the one measure which would help to control the spread of the disease."

Doctor Discovers Blue Caterpillars

While breeding butterflies in his laboratory, Dr. J. H. Gerould of Dartmouth College discovered a number of blue caterpillars, says the Scientific American. They were found to breed true, and the color is probably the result of some mutation in the digestive system. So conspicuous are they against green leaves that sparrows pick them off while overlooking their green relatives, and it is likely that blue caterpillars have always existed, but that the birds have discovered them before man could do so.
